Vandalizing cultural sites on public lands may land you in court

Omaha, Neb. — Archaeological resources on public lands are an irreplaceable part of our nation's heritage and, increasingly, law enforcement and courts are stepping up their response to those who abuse items of cultural value.

For example last fall, the U.S. District Court of South Dakota assessed a heavy fine in a case involving a misdemeanor violation of the Archaeological Resources Protection Act (ARPA). The individual who was prosecuted was ordered to pay a $617.74 fine; $4,382.26 in restitution; a $25 special assessment and to forfeit 710 archaeological resources.

Crimes like the case in South Dakota may be spurred on by the commercial attractiveness of these cultural items. Federal laws such as ARPA prohibit the damage or removal of any material remains of past human life or activities which are of archaeological interest. The purpose of ARPA is to protect archaeological resources and sites located on Federal and Tribal lands. It is illegal to sell or knowingly purchase these items. Penalties for the destruction of these resources include: fines, forfeiture of artifacts and equipment used in the commission of the crime, imprisonment and monetary restitution for damages to sites.

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District investigations usually begin with a call to the district's cultural resource hotline (1-866-No-SWIPE (1-866-667-9473)). Callers can anonymously report illegal activity, including vandalism, looting, digging or sale of artifacts that may have been obtained illegally from federal or Indian lands.

The Omaha District and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service have entered into a partnership designed to enhance the investigation and prosecution of these cases. Personnel from both agencies work closely with Tribal, State and local law enforcement agencies to pursue criminal charges on incidents that take place on public lands administered by the Corps. As a direct result of this partnership, recent investigations in North and South Dakota have resulted in four felony convictions and seven misdemeanor convictions under ARPA, with sentences resulting in fines exceeding $33,000, two terms in Federal prison — one for 8 months and another for 10 months, over 80 months of probation and one 6 month term of home confinement.

The public is reminded that archaeological, cultural, historic, and burial sites along the Missouri River are important resources to all Americans, both now and in the future. The Omaha District is dedicated to protecting and preserving these resources and cooperatively works with Federal, Tribal, State and local law enforcement authorities to that end.

The Corps asks the public to help preserve these resources by leaving these sites undisturbed and contacting the Corps' toll free number 1-866-No-SWIPE (1-866-667-9473) to report people illegally collecting artifacts. Investigations begin as soon as an incident is identified.

HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE IOWA TRIBE

P.O. Box 68 White Cloud, Kansas 66094

Dear Tribal Members,

Hope everyone has had a good winter. We are working on a new funding source to provide Tribal Members with another opportunity to purchase homes outside of the service area. This will also include the service area but it is a better opportunity for those who are not in it.

We are working with the Department of Housing and Urban Development on what is called Section 184 Indian Home Loan Program. A lot of states are already included but we are currently working to get Richardson County. in Nebraska in the service area as it is already in the tribal service area but not included in HUDS service area.

Currently the following states are eligible;

Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Maryland, Maine, Montana, North Dakota, New Mexico, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota.

States that have selected counties already approved are;

Alabama, Connecticut, Iowa, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Texas, Utah, Wyoming.

Any state that is not listed is not eligible for this program. Under this program, the Federal Government guarantees these loans 100%. Any purchase under $50,000 requires 1.25% down, over $50,000 requires 2.25% down and currently the interest rates are 3.45% but are subject to change.

One loan has already been completed through the Housing Authority and another has been pre-approved. This program does not have any income limits, nor any stipulations on how long you live in it. Everything is done through the lender that we are working with.

The Down Payment Assistance Program that we currently have in place, can still be used as long as you qualify and you do have to still purchase in the Tribal Service area for this and you will be subject to the stipulations as spelled out in the Policies and procedures for the program.

We are hoping to get the approval for what we are working on soon. We will keep you updated. If you have any questions, please feel free to call me at 7855953380 anytime.

Tree Tax Preparation Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA)

Dear Tribal Members,

I hope this newsletter finds all of you in good health and general wellbeing. I have been researching a lot of financial education programs/asset management and am still researching. I feel that if our members have strong financial and asset management skills that those will help our tribe become more self sufficient and aware. One program that I have been able to bring to the tribe is the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program which helps low to moderate income families have their taxes prepared and e-filed free of charge. This program couples with the Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) which is not based on income but is designed to help our older Americans have their taxes prepared for free as well. This, I hope, is just the beginning and am anxious to see what else there is out there that could be beneficial to our tribal members.

Getting everything set up, filled out, and implemented was my main focus in 2011. This program is with the Internal Revenue Service and I have a relationship manager that keeps in contact with me on a weekly basis. I had to apply for an Electronic Filing Identification Number (EFIN), a Site Identification Number (SIDN), complete training and testing at various levels, and recruit volunteers. We opened our site on February 16, 2012 and it will be open on Thursdays and Saturdays until April 15, 2012. We started out slow this year and I was a little disappointed but it has been a good pace to get implemented and familiar with the program and learn the software. This was also the learning year and we have been making a lot of notes on what to do differently or implement for next year. The VITA site is for individuals or families whose income is $50,000 or less which correlates with the eligibility requirements to qualify for the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). I would also like to take this time to thank my volunteers that I recruited they are: Linda Waggoner, Alisha Hoppe, Linda Rhodd, Tamela Roberts, and Maxine Kent and Thank You for your time and efforts.

I welcome any Tribal Members who would like to schedule an appointment to review financials. Please feel free to contact me at the Tribal Office.

Rachel E.W. Kent

lowa Tribe Executive Treasurer

Hello Everyone,

What wonderful weather, time to start thinking about what we want to plant in our gardens. I see alot of flowers coming up already.

I am trying my best to get everyone taken care of but sometimes I have an unexpected call that I must tend to. I have had days that I forgot to do something job related and I do apologize for that.

I am asking a small favor of everyone that depends on a ride from me, if you need an appointment made I ask that you either call me in advance to see what days I have open or have me make the appointment. I have been rescheduling alot of appointments or I have been having 2-3 transports per day.

If for any reason you need to get ahold of me feel free to call my office @ 1785-595-3285 or my cell phone @ 1-402-801-0362 if for some reason I do not answer please leave a message and I will call you back as soon as I can. If you call my cell phone and get no answer if I am with a patient I will not answer but I will call you back as soon as I can.

Thanks and have a wonderful summer

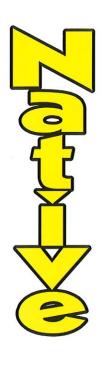

I would like to say hello to all the Iowa Tribal Members. My name is Tamela Roberts. I take care of the meal site, and prepare meals fot the elders.

During the spring and summer months we have a cookout once a month. Right now we are having a drawing on the last Monday of the month for prizes. To qualify all the senoiors have to do is come in to eat at the center. They are given a ticket to sign that will go into a jar and two names a drawn and you must be present to win.

Maxine Kent delivers our meals she delivers an average of 30 meals per day. She als does small chores such as putting trash out and sometimes delivers medications to elders.

We want to remind you that you must get 35 meals at the center to qualify for our end of the summer trip. Last year we had a Indian Taco sale to pay for our outing. We went to the Prarie Band Casino. Perhaps we can go somewhere different this year.

Maxine and I enjoy having the seniors come in to eat. So come in for good company and a home cooked meal. Hope to see you all soon.

Patt Scherer,

While living in Frederick, MD in 2005, I was thrilled to learn that the annual meeting of the American Association of Indian Physicians was planning to meet east of the Mississippi for the first time in the history of their organization. I attended the meeting, held in Washington, DC, and was suprised to meet two other women physicians who were also members of the Iowa Tribe of Kansas and nebraska. I only recently "discovered" this photo, which was taken at that time. As my father, Charles DuPuis was in the Army during my childhood, I had limited time on the reservation, but grew up listening to his stories. When I met these other physicians, I knew by their surnames that our elders had known each other because of his family stories.

The Iowa Tribe of Kansas and Nebraska is pleased to announce the completion of the Iowa, Otoe-Missouria Dictionary Project and the online publication of the Ioway, Otoe-Missouria Dictionary: Báxoje, Jiwére-Ñút^achi Ich^é Wawágaxe. The project, which involved five years of work, was supported by a grant to the Tribe from the National Science Foundation's Documenting Endangered Languages program. The project's Principal Investigator was Jimm Goodtracks, and the dictionary digitizes and expands his earlier Ioway, Otoe-Missouria lexicon (word list) of 1992.

The Ioway, Otoe-Missouria Dictionary is a comprehensive and encyclopedic reference work. It is comprehensive because all known words are included. Some words—such as chehgábahñe mi "gri ^û", "churn butter," or xámi gistáye, "scythe, sickle"—are marked "old" to show that they refer to activities or objects that are no longer a regular part of Ioway or Otoe-Missouria life. Since the dictionary is comprehensive, it will provide something of interest to everyone, whether they want to learn about clan names, traditional plant medicines, or other topics related to the Tribe's cultural inheritance.

The dictionary is encyclopedic because it includes educational historical and cultural information for words that may be unfamiliar to modern readers. For example, the dictionary explains terms related to the sacred bundle system and describes the difference between the two main genres of Ioway and Otoe-Missouria narratives: wékaⁿ, traditional stories of a sacred character, and wórage, stories based on personal or historical events.

The dictionary allows readers to understand how previous generations viewed the world around them. For example, the words for "tea," xáme má'ka, and "coffee," má'kathèwe, both contain the word má'ka, which means "medicine." This shows that Ioways and Otoe-Missourias used tea and coffee as medicines when they first encountered them. Only later did they learn the habit of drinking tea and coffee every day.

While the dictionary records much from the past, it is also designed to show how Ioway, Otoe-Missouria language can be used in the present and future. One of the unique features of Ioway, Otoe-Missouria language compared to English is that words are made up of smaller but meaningful parts. As readers become more familiar with the language, they will be able to see how these parts are used to compose words. Just as previous generations made words for everything from tea and coffee to telephone (ikikich 'e, literally, "speak to each other") and television (wadárugri 'we, literally, "something moves along by lightning and heat"), tribal members today could also create words for computers and other recent technologies based on these principles. Many entries in the dictionary include example sentences that show how the language can be applied to modem situations.

In order to reach a broad audience of tribal members, linguists, and the general public, the dictionary can be viewed online at the websites of the Kansas State Historical Society (http://www.kshs.org/p/the-ioway-otoe-missouria-baxoje-jiwere-nut-achi-language-project-and-dictionary/16055) and the Ioway, Otoe-Missouria Language Project (http://iowayotoelang.nativeweb.org/dictionary.htm). A dictionary is never finished, however, and the files are constantly being updated and expanded with additional entries, conjugations, and example sentences. Eventually, the dictionary will be published in print with additional material, including a technical grammar sketch for linguists and a pedagogical grammar sketch that explains the language in terms accessible to language-learners.

Featuring The Brad Campbell Story....

Brad Campbell was 45 pounds heavier when he stepped into the gym just 15 months ago and met with IHS Personal Trainer Crystal Tracy. Crystal put him on a rigorous plan which took persistence and dedication. His grandchildren are his greatest motivation. "I wanted to live", says Brad. He had heart conditions due to being overweight and lacking a nutritious diet. We are proud of Brad for making the decision to take that first step, which is often the hardest one, to improve his body, mind and spirit. Brad has lost a total of 20.5 inches off his body and went from a 32.2 BMI (body mass index) to 23.5 BMI. He is now off most of his medications and feels much more energy. In Brads own words, "I feel like a MILLION bucks!"

Dear Tribal Members,

My name is Ruby Jean Whitecloud Rhodd, daughter of Jim & Linda Rhodd. I am the current Ioway Tribal Princess. Currently I am a Junior at Doniphan West High School in Highlad Kansas. It is an honor for me to represent the Iowa Tribe at Pow Wows, and other functions. One of my goals is to encourage young people to learn our traditions and not let them be forgotten. As generations pass it will be up to us to continue to make our Tribe strong for all tribal members.

Again, thank you and hope to see you at the Ioway Tribal Pow Wow this fall!

Sincerely, Ruby Rhodd

Here is your Opportunity to Make a Difference

Military Family Listening Conference May 4th, 2012 10:00AM-3:00PM Oklahoma City, OK

We are looking for a select group of military, (active and inactive), family members who are interested in having a "voice" in the community.

On May 4th we are hosting a Listening Session which will include a panel of community agencies who will "listen" to the needs of our veterans, (active and inactive military) and family members.

There will be an opportunity to have questions addressed and to get information about available resources.

Vision

The military family listening conference is designed to identify gaps in services as it relates to supports for military families and to provide a greater understanding of available resources.

If you are interested in being selected as a speaker to address our panel, please contact:

To the Iowa Tribal members, the 2011 hunting and fishing season is over. We had a total of 38 Deer taken during the 2011 season, 14 were Does and 24 were Bucks. We also had 45 Turkeys taken during 2011season. The $5.00 charge per tribal member is still in effect for 2012 Turkey and Deer tags. All hunters can pick up your Turkey tags from Feb.1st to the day before the firearms Turkey season starts. The Iowa Tribal Fish & Wildlife board voted to have a Youth Deer & Turkey season in 2012. The Youth Deer season runs from September 8th to September 16th & Youth Turkey season runs from March 24th to April 1st. Youth must be an enrolled Iowa Tribal member or a resident of the Iowa Tribe Reservation, also must be 16 or vounger and passed a Hunters Education course and be under direct supervision of an adult 18 or older to hunt youth season. The rules, regulations, and fees are the same as the regular Deer & Turkey. 2012 Archery Deer hunters will be able to receive 2 Deer tags, one tag will be a Either Sex tag and the other tag will be Antlerless Deer only.
